

The Great Brain Race: How Global Universities Are Reshaping the World

Ben Wildavsky is a senior fellow in research and policy at the Kauffman Foundation and author of THE GREAT BRAIN RACE: How Global Universities Are Reshaping the World. He joined the Kauffman Foundation following an 18-year career as a writer and editor specializing in education and public policy. Most recently he was education editor of U.S. News & World Report, where he was the top editor of America's Best Colleges and America's Best Graduate Schools.

Ben Wildavsky

...author,
higher education
and public policy expert

Ben Wildavsky has spoken to audiences at Google, the Economist's Human Potential conference, Harvard, Berkeley, the London School of Economics, the Committee for Economic Development, and many other venues.

PSU faculty and students are encouraged to attend this lecture.

Wednesday, February 2
4:00 p.m.

Crimson & Gold Ballroom
Overman Student Center

Pittsburg State University

The PSU Internationalization Council and the International Academic Affairs Committee will present this public lecture with featured speaker Ben Wildavsky.

For additional information, contact the International Programs and Services office at 235-4680 or iss@pittstate.edu.