400 years ago, Emilia Bassano was a trailblazer, but her story is almost completely lost to history. Considered to have published one of the first collections of poetry written by a woman, yet most remember her for potentially being the "Dark Lady" in Shakespeare's sonnets. In this contemporary play about a historical period, Emilia struggles with getting her work seen and her voice heard. Join us to see why her story continues to be important then and now. For Mature Audiences

ANIMAL FARM • April 20-23, 2023

Adapted by Ian Wooldridge from the book by George Orwell | Directed by Linden Little

Thursday-Saturday @ 7:30pm / Saturday & Sunday @ 2:00pm

Dotty and Bill Miller Theater / Bicknell Family Center for the Arts

The animals on Mr. Jones' farm have been overworked and mistreated, so Major the pig inspires the tired animals to rise up and overthrow Jones. For a time, the animals live in a paradise of idealism, but then the corrupt leadership of Napoleon the pig threatens the very livelihood the animals worked to achieve. George Orwell's enduring tale serves as a cautionary parable against totalitarianism and asks us to consider if this could happen in our own backyard.
