Online and Distance Learning –
Chair: Laurent Pretot
Recorder: Krissy Lewis

Online and Distance Learning Committee met 09/08/2022
All designated members were present. Laurent Pretot will chair the group this year, and Krissy Lewis will take notes. Topics discussed briefly for further action this year included continuance of working out a Distance Learning Plan; further describing what Online Education should be and include; continuing to work with key administrators on any HLC or other administrative relationships, both for faculty and students. Laurent will work towards scheduling monthly meeting, and Krissy will get new folks set up with the Teams folders which have last year's working documents.

Academic Honors –
Chair: Kris Lawson
Recorder: Kristi Frisbee

Items for Discussion:

1. Review of Academic Honors - the policies and procedures and what the review committees are finding as the most common reasons for revision requests (grammar, spelling, missing information, lack of use of specific verbiage from the departmental/school guidelines.

2. Requesting that each department/school review their current guidelines and if they don't have department/school specific guidelines, that they develop them. That is helpful to the review committees. One issue we found was in Music. Senior music majors do not have any 3 credit hour classes that they can take for honors. Each of their classes are either 1 or 2 credits since 2019 when we had to meet the Regent's requirement for 120-hour bachelor's degrees. That makes it difficult for a Music major to complete the 9 credit hour requirement without taking two classes for honors in the same semester.

3. Academic Honors in the Summer session. How does this impact faculty? How does it affect review committees?

4. We are looking at clearing up the language regarding the deadline for submission of Academic Honors applications. The policy currently reads the Monday of the third full week of classes. Proposed new language is tentatively the 15th class day of the semester.

Honors College –
Chair: Rion Huffman
Recorder: Mandy Peak

With the retirement of the previous Honors College Director, the Honors College Committee has been tasked with reviewing the current structure of the Honors College to assess what changes, if any, need to be made. With the vacancy in leadership, Heather Eckstein has graciously stepped into the role of Interim Director of the Honors College in order to facilitate a smooth transition in this time of evaluation. Many decisions need to be made, and some need to be made quickly. The most prominent decision was in regards to application criteria. The Honors College website needed to be taken down while this decision was being made in order to ensure prospective students clearly knew the criteria. The committee decided to keep the criteria as-is for the 2022-2023 academic year, with the purpose of reviewing the criteria and making changes if needed for the 2023-2024 academic year and beyond.

2nd Reading:

ARTICLE 30. ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Education at the university level requires intellectual integrity and trust between faculty and students. Professors are obliged to master their subject and present as fair an account of it as possible. For their part, students are obliged to make an honest effort to fulfill both the letter and the spirit of course requirements. Academic misconduct violates both integrity and trust. It jeopardizes the effectiveness of the educational process and the reliability of publicly reported records of achievement.

Academic misconduct by a student is defined as unethical activity associated with course work or grades.

It includes, but is not limited to:

1. Giving or receiving unauthorized aid on examinations.
2. Giving or receiving unauthorized aid in the preparation of notebooks, themes, reports, papers or any other assignments.
3. Submitting the same work for more than one course without the instructor's permission.
4. Plagiarism. Plagiarism is defined as using ideas or writings of another and claiming them as one's own. Copying any material directly (be it the work of other students, professors, or colleagues) or copying information from print or electronic sources (including the internet) without explicitly acknowledging the true source of the material is plagiarism. Plagiarism also includes paraphrasing another individuals' ideas or concepts without acknowledging their work, or contribution.
5. Unless otherwise stated by the instructor, exams, quizzes, and out-of-class assignments are meant to be individual, rather than group, work. Hence, copying from other students' quizzes or exams, as well as presenting as one's own work an assignment prepared wholly or in part by another is in violation of academic honesty.

The above guidelines do not preclude group study for exams, sharing of sources for research projects, or students discussing their ideas with other members of the class unless explicitly prohibited by the instructor. Since the violation of academic honesty strikes at the heart of the educational process, it is subject to the severest sanctions, up to and including receiving an "F" or "XF" (an "XF" indicates the "F" was the result of academic dishonesty) for the entire class or dismissal from the university.

When an instructor has a reasonable good faith belief that a student(s) has committed academic misconduct, that instructor, in accordance with their course syllabus, has the sole discretion to give the student an F on the assignment/test to which the student committed academic misconduct or an F for the entire course. If an instructor's response to alleged academic misconduct negatively affects the student's final grade in the course, that student(s) may appeal the final grade pursuant to the current Pittsburg State University Catalog's Grade Appeal process.

When the instructor wishes to impose an "XF", and/or more severe sanctions, he or she must first notify their department chair, dean, and the University's Academic Honesty Committee Chairperson via the institution's online academic misconduct form. In addition, the same procedure applies if similar sanctions seem warranted for a student(s) or former student(s) who have assisted in acts of academic misconduct.

For any Pittsburg State University Discipline proceedings, the "preponderance of evidence" standard of proof will be utilized. A preponderance of evidence standard evaluates whether it is more likely than not, based on the evidence available, that a violation occurred.

University Academic Honesty Committee

The Academic Honesty Committee is convened under the auspices of the Provost. It is composed of nine members. The Faculty Senate Executive Committee is responsible for appointing six of these members. All must be full-time members of the teaching faculty. Members chosen by the Executive Committee serve staggered two-year terms. The Faculty Senate Executive Committee shall make its appointments at the beginning of the academic year. In addition to its six faculty members, the Academic Honesty Committee shall include three student members. Two (2) students shall be appointed by the Student Government Association. An additional (1) student shall be appointed by the Graduate Student Association. The students from both organizations will be appointed annually and at the beginning of the Fall semester.

The Vice President of the Faculty Senate will serve as the Academic Honesty Committee Chairperson. If the Vice President of the Faculty Senate is excluded because of possible bias, the President of the Faculty Senate will appoint a temporary chair. The Academic Honesty Committee Chairperson is responsible for communicating with the Provost on cases involving alleged student academic misconduct.

The committee may impose one or more of the following sanction(s):

- The imposition of a grade of "XF"
- Request the Office of Student Rights and Responsibilities place the student on Disciplinary Probation
- Specifically Defined Sanctions. Specific conditions given to the student, or student organization, examples include limitations placed on behavior, revocation of privileges, or an active obligation to complete a specified action, such as campus/community service, participate in educational programs, etc.
- Suspension. Suspension is a temporary disciplinary separation from the University involving denial of all student privileges. Suspension shall be effective on the date of notice of the suspension or later if so stated in the notice, and shall prescribe the date and conditions upon which the student may petition for readmission. Conditions for readmission may include, but are not limited to, disciplinary probation for a specified length of time; nonresident on campus; restricted visitation to specified University facilities; and a written statement from an accredited mental health professional or medical doctor verifying the capability of the student to function successfully at the University. Students separated from the University by suspension may not enter the University premises or University-related premises without securing prior approval from the Vice President for Student Life.

- Expulsion from the university. Expulsion is permanent disciplinary separation from the University involving denial of all student privileges. Expulsion shall be effective on the date of notice of the expulsion, or later if so stated in the notice. Students separated from the University by expulsion may not enter the University premises or University-related premises without securing prior approval from the Vice President for Student Life.

The decision made by the Academic Honesty Committee may be appealed to the Provost. The following procedures shall be adhered to:

- Step 1: The instructor charging a student with academic misconduct shall submit a written request for more severe sanctions to the Chairperson of the Academic Honesty Committee, giving full detail of the alleged act(s) of academic misconduct and send copies of the request to their department chair and dean. The Chairperson of the Academic Honesty Committee will inform the Campus Judicial Officer and the other members of the details of the incident. The Campus Judicial Officer will contact the student and provide information on the student's rights, the allegations, and the procedures related to the Academic Misconduct Hearing. The Chairperson shall then schedule a hearing to be held within fifteen (15) business days from the time of the instructor's request. If the request occurs at the end of a semester, or after a semester has concluded, the Chairperson will schedule a hearing within 15 days of the start of the new semester (excluding June and July Summer Sessions).

- Step 2: The instructor, and student(s) charged with academic misconduct, will be notified of the time and date of the said hearing at least five (5) class days before the hearing is to be held. The instructor, and student(s) charged with academic misconduct may seek advice concerning the hearing from any person such as a faculty member or department chairperson. The instructor and each student(s) may also be accompanied to the hearing by an advisor of their choice. All hearings are record for future reference, only the University recording is deemed official. Note: The university attorney has the right to be present at any Academic Honesty Committee hearing.

  The two parties, the instructor and student(s) charged with academic misconduct, may each request removal of any one member of the committee. This request shall be presented to the Chairperson of the committee in writing at least two (2) class days prior to the time of the hearing. After the request for removal has been made the chairperson will notify the individual and the respective individual will be removed from the hearing. In order to establish a quorum, there must be a minimum of five (5) committee members, excluding the Chairperson present. At least one of those must be a student appointed by their governing body.

- Step 3: The Academic Honesty Committee will conduct an appropriate hearing and may gather additional evidence pertaining to the issue.

  During the hearing, the instructor, student(s) charged with academic misconduct, and witnesses with direct first-hand knowledge of the incident shall have the opportunity to testify (within the guidelines and time frames established by the committee). Hearings are administrative proceedings not legal proceedings. Cross-examination is the prerogative of the instructor, the student(s) charged with academic misconduct, and the committee. During the entire process the proceedings of the committee shall be closed and confidential, unless the matter becomes the subject of litigation.

- Step 4: Within five (5) business days of the conclusion of the hearing, the committee will render a written opinion concerning its findings, as well as a written decision to the Campus Judicial Officer. The Campus Judicial Officer will disseminate the information to the student, faculty, and appropriate University departments.

- Step 5: Upon notification of the imposed sanction, the student(s) will have five (5) business days to appeal to the Provost. This appeal must be in a written format and must provide detail for the reason of the appeal.

- Step 6: Once the Provost receives the appeal, he/she will have 10 business days to review the hearing and, in consultation with the President, render a decision. The Provost may uphold, or overturn the Academic Honesty Committee's sanction(s) or propose an alternate penalty which the student may accept.

Removal of Sanctions

After two (2) years have elapsed, the student may present a written request for removal of the imposed sanctions to the Provost. If the request is not granted, the student may present up to 4 more requests for removal but in no case can the student present more than 1 request per year academic year.

If the request is granted, the student may be returned to good standing with the university and/or have the notification of the disciplinary action removed from their transcript, provided that no other sanction for academic dishonesty has been imposed in the interim. It shall be at the Provost's discretion to determine what fairness requires.

Name of Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate: Women's and Gender Studies

If proposing a name change to major or minor/emphasis/certificate, indicate Proposed Name Change:

Description of Change: These changes update and expand program electives.

Rationale for Change (include changes to curriculum objectives): These changes bring the WGS minor into alignment with recent changes to the curriculums of multiple other programs and departments at Pittsburg State and, in addition, expand the number of electives for the minor in Women's and Gender Studies.

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any degree program or minor/emphasis/certificate at any other Regent university?

☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation.

By expanding programs electives, these revisions may create greater consistency between Women's, Gender and Sexuality programs system-wide.

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any other department's/college's/unit's curricula or programs at Pittsburg State University?

☒ Yes ☐ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.

These updates may increase enrollments in the courses that are listed as electives.

Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate

Copy and paste the existing curriculum as it currently appears in the online catalog:

The Women's and Gender Studies minor involves twenty-one credit hours, including a six credit hour core emphasizing collaborative learning and critical thinking in global, activist and feminist contexts. It complements a wide variety of majors, including Business, Communication, Education, English, Family and Consumer Sciences, History, Justice Studies, Psychology, and Sociology, and is an excellent preparation for careers in the non-profit sector or in private sector fields such as human resources, marketing, management, education, and law.

Core Requirements (6 hours)

- WGS-200 Introduction to Women's Studies (3 hours)
- WGS-399 Global Women's Issues (3 hours)

Select 15 hours of electives from:

- ART-178 Introduction to the Visual Arts (3 hours)
- ART-689 Contemporary Issues in Art (3 hours)
- COMM-530 Interpersonal Communication (3 hours)
- COMM-795 Issues in Communication (____) (3 hours)
  Must be taken as Gender Communication.
- ENGL-555 Topics in Literature (____) (1-3 hours) or
- ENGL-755 Topics in Literature (____) (1-3 hours)
  Must be relevant to Women's and Gender Studies.
- ENGL-566 American Theme (____) (3 hours)
  Must be relevant to Women's and Gender Studies.
- ENGL-771 Major Author(s) (____) (3 hours)
  Must be relevant to Women's and Gender Studies.

- SOC-536 The Family and Society (3 hours)
- SOC-569 Society and Sexuality (3 hours)
- SOC-584 Medical Sociology (3 hours)
- SOC-663 Women, Men and Society (3 hours)

Total hours required for Minor in Women's and Gender Studies (21 hours).

WGS 500 or WGS 700 may be substituted for WGS 200 or WGS 399 with permission.

*Women's and Gender Studies Electives: Must be selected from at least three different departments, with departments defined to include courses with distinct program designations (e.g., HIST, JUST and SOC). At least 15 of the 21 hours must be completed with courses numbered 300 or above, including WGS 399. Students may receive credit toward both their major and the Women's and Gender Studies minor for no more than one elective. Courses offered at the graduate level are typically available only to those earning the Certificate in Women's and Gender Studies as part of graduate or post- graduate studies. Students should refer to the Women's and Gender Studies link in the on-line course schedule for a complete list of Women's and Gender Studies electives as additional courses may be offered on a per semester basis. Browyn, Kristen Humphrey and Chris Childers have given the approval for the courses that you laid out in your email to be included in the WGS minor revision. Please begin the legislation paperwork and attach this chain of email. When the paperwork is complete, Marty can upload it to the Curriculum commitee folder for review.

Kristen and Chris,

Browyn has contacted me in her role as WGS director, to inquire about the inclusion of certain HPSS courses in the revisions to the WGS minor (and Certificate programs). You will see the email below.

Kristen, would you approve SWK 375 for inclusion in the WGS minor?

Chris, would you approve HIST 207 and HIST 532 for the WGS minor, and HIST 207 for the Women's Health Minor?

Jamie

Existing electives, which would remain unchanged, include:

Women's and Gender Studies
JUST-480 Women, Crime and Justice
SOC-443 Race and Ethnic Relations (3 hours)
SOC-512 Social Stratification (3 hours)
SOC-536 The Family and Society (3 hours)
SOC-569 Society and Sexuality (3 hours)
SOC-584 Medical Sociology (3 hours)
SOC-663 Women, Men and Society (3 hours)

Women's Health
JUST-480 Women, Crime and Justice (3 hours)
SOC-569 Society and Sexuality (3 hours)
SOC-584 Medical Sociology (3 hours)

WGS is also updating the language for its undergraduate and graduate certificate programs to include, at the graduate level, the following classes, with permission:

HIST 700 History Selected Subjects (_____) Must be relevant to WGS.
HIST 701 American History Selected Subjects (____) Must be relevant to WGS.
HIST 702 World History Selected Subjects (____) Must be relevant to WGS.

Good morning,

The courses listed for undergraduate minor programs in Women's and Gender Studies and Women's Health look good to retain as electives. In addition, including FCS 780 in your undergraduate and graduate certificate programs is approved.

If I can do anything else for you, please let me know.

Take care,

Dr. Hicklin,

WGS is updating its undergraduate minor programs in Women's and Gender Studies and Women's Health and would like to retain the following FCS courses as electives:

Women's and Gender Studies
FCS 480 Dynamics of Family Relationships
FCS 580 Family Violence/Child Abuse

Women's Health
FCS 580 Family Violence/Child Abuse

Other FCS courses that might no longer offered (e.g., FCS 154, 581) would be deleted.

WGS is also updating the language for its undergraduate and graduate certificate programs to include, at the graduate level, the following classes, with your permission:

FCS 780 Family Violence/Child Abuse

Also, if WGS is missing other Family and Consumer Sciences courses that should be included as electives for Women's and Gender Studies, please let me know.

Department: Biology College: Arts & Sciences Submission Date: _____

Contact Person: Andrew George ☒ Faculty member ☐ Chair

Revision Effective: Fall 2022 (Semester/Year)

Offered: (check all that apply)
☐ Fall
☒ Spring
☐ Summer

Is this revision related to, and/or affect, any other departments/college/unit curricula or programs at Pittsburg State University?
☒ Yes ☐ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.
This course is an option for the Bachelor of Integrated Studies - emphasis in SSRM. We are lowering the prerequisite requirement to make it easier for SSRM students to take the course.

Purpose/Justification for Revision to Course: We are lowering the prerequisite requirement to make the course more accessible to non-biology majors. Instead of requiring BIOL 212: Principles of Biology II, we are changing the pre-req to BIOL 111: General Biology or BIOL 113: Environmental Life Science or BIOL 211: Principles of Biology I. These changes will allow any student to enroll after they have completed their first biology course.

Existing Course:

Course Number: BIOL 303

Title of Course: Regional Natural History

Credit Hours: 3

Prerequisite: BIOL 211 Principles of Biology I and BIOL 212 Principles of Biology II or permission of instructor

Course Description (as it appears in the current catalog): Classification, identification, ecology and collection techniques emphasized in the survey of regional flora, fauna, and geological features. Pre-requisite: BIOL 211 Principles of Biology I and BIOL 212 Principles of Biology II or permission of instructor

Proposed Course:

Course Number: BIOL 303

Title of Course: Regional Natural History

Credit Hours: 3

Prerequisite: BIOL 111: General Biology or BIOL 113: Environmental Life Science or BIOL 211: Principles of Biology I

Course Description (as it will appear in the next catalog): Classification, identification, ecology and collection techniques emphasized in the survey of regional flora, fauna, and geological features. Pre-requisite: BIOL 111 General Biology or BIOL 113 Environmental Life Science or BIOL 211 Principles of Biology I

This course is an elective meant to serve undergraduate students who have an interest in scientific research and/or those who are currently involved in on-campus research. While students in other majors beyond Biology may enroll, it should not impact other department's curricula or programs as the course is an elective hour.

Proposed Course:

Course Number: BIOL 400

Title of Course: Introduction to Undergraduate Research

Credit Hours: 1

Date first offered: Spring 2022 (Semester/Year) ☐ Fall ☒ Spring ☐ Summer (check all that apply)

Prerequisite: Special permission of instructor required.

Course Description (as it will appear in the next catalog): This course introduces undergraduates to the basics of what scientific research entails. We will discuss scholarly activities being conducted by students and faculty from disciplines across campus, and all students will be encouraged to identify their research interests and start projects in collaboration with faculty. This course will cover the nature of research and how it can expand student's undergraduate experience, research ethics, disseminating research findings, grants, regulating agencies, etc. The overarching goal of the course is to prepare students for future research, internships/careers, and advanced degrees.

Purpose/Justification for Proposed Course: This course was developed for Kansas IDEA Network of Biomedical Research Excellence (K-INBRE) student Scholars and other undergraduate students engaged in research or those interested in getting involved with research on campus. While these students can discuss research related to their projects with their research mentors, we did not have any formal research-focused class at the undergraudate level. This course will give undergraduate researchers an overview of key topics applicable to any scientific research, but focused on the undergraduate level. K-INBRE Scholars will be expected to enroll in this course during their time as a Scholar to supplement our statewide monthly meetings.

Objectives/Student Learning Outcomes (as it will appear in the syllabus)
By the end of this course, the successful student will be able to:
- Identify their future goals regarding research.
- Discuss opportunities and challenges associated with academic research.
- Describe the scientific research process, from experimental design to publication.
- Practice methods to communicate research results across broad audiences.

• Synthesize their understanding of undergraduate research by conducting research of their own.

Assessment Strategies [e.g., exams, projects, university rubric, etc. (as it will appear in the syllabus)]
Achievement in this course is accomplished by:

- Attendance (50 points)
- Mini-Assignments (10 points each)
  - o Semester Goals
  - o Research Mentor Interview
  - o Writing an Abstract
  - o Exploring Journal Publications
  - o Graduate School Search
  - o Preparing Your CV
  - o Research Colloquium Poster Evaluations

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND LEARNING GOALS

By the end of this course, the successful student will be able to:

- Identify their future goals regarding research.
- Discuss opportunities and challenges associated with academic research.
- Describe the scientific research process, from experimental design to publication.
- Practice methods to communicate research results across broad audiences.

EVALUATION*

Achievement in this course is accomplished by:

- Attendance (50 points)
  - Allowed 2 unexcused absences

- Mini-Assignments (10 points each)
  - Semester Goals
  - Research Mentor Interview
  - Exploring Journal Publications
  - Writing an Abstract
  - Research Colloquium Poster Evaluations
  - Communicating to Broad Audiences
  - Graduate School Search
  - Preparing Your CV
  - Final Class Survey

There will be no midterm or final exam given for this course.

GRADING SCALE
Grades will be based on your points earned as the percentage of the total available points (140), following the grading scale below. Assignments will accrue 10% off the final score each day they are late. If you anticipate an absence, you must email me your assignment before its due date.

A = 100% - 90% B = 89% - 80% C = 79% - 70% D = 69% - 60% F = 59% and Below

DEADLINE EXTENSIONS
Life can sometimes get crazy and overwhelming. If you feel as though you need an extra day or two to submit work, please contact me as soon as possible. I am willing to work with you!

ATTENDANCE & PARTICIPATION
Attendance and participation are essential for exemplary performance in this class, especially as we only meet one day per week. We will discuss various topics each week; thus, missing class will prevent you from acquiring that week's materials and participating in class discussions. Please notify me immediately about any issues that may arise causing you to miss multiple classes (e.g. death in the family, illnesses).

UNIVERSITY CLOSURES
Should inclement weather conditions arise or be anticipated that would make class attendance unsafe, the university may elect to cancel classes for a defined period of time. We will still meet at our regular time on Zoom for lecture. Please wait for a Canvas announcement for further information.

E-MAIL POLICY
I will be using the messaging system on Canvas to contact you outside of class. Please be aware that I check my email sparingly during nights and weekends, so if you send an email after Friday afternoon, please do not expect an answer until Monday morning.

STUDENT ACCOMMODATIONS
All students are expected to meet the standards for this course as set by the instructor. However, students with learning disabilities who may need accommodations should discuss options with the Center for Student Accommodations (CSA) during the first two weeks of class. The CSA will contact professors with suggested classroom needs and accommodations. Approved documentation needs to be on file in the CSA prior to the start of the semester.

DEAD WEEK
There may be in-class assignments during Dead Week.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY
Academic integrity is expected. Please review the policy on the university's webpage. For additional information and requirements, see the Syllabus Supplement.

☒ Yes ☐ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.
This course is designed for upper level Biology students, but students with Sustainability, Society & Resource Management (SSRM) Integrated Studies majors also enroll.

Purpose/Justification for Revision to Course: The current prerequisites for BIOL 576 list General Biology (BIOL 111) or Principles of Biology I and II (BIOL 211/212). Since those two courses are not required for SSRM majors, we have run into issues with enrollment permission and have had to enroll SSRM students on a case-by-case basis. Since Principles of Ecology (BIOL 330) is a core course for both Biology and SSRM majors, that course might better serve as the prerequisite, especially as a knowledge of ecological principles would better prepare students who intend to take BIOL 576.

Existing Course:

Course Number: BIOL 576

Title of Course: Human Dimensions of Natural Resource Management

Credit Hours: 3

Prerequisite: BIOL 111 or BIOL 211/212

Course Description (as it appears in the current catalog): Concepts and ideas relevant to the relationships that people have with natural resources and their management. Students will discover and integrate multiple factors of human dimensions theory through readings, discussions, and developing and analyzing an authentic survey for a local organization.

Proposed Course:

Subject: Human Dimensions Course Revision

Hi Catherine and Alicia,

I hope to submit this Revision to Course for Human Dimensions in the next month or so, changing the prerequisite from Gen Bio / Principles I and 2 to Ecology. As you may know, enrolling SSRM students in the course is usually a challenge as many of them do not take Gen Bio / PoB, so they would have to get special permission from me and enroll late / miss a seat. Since we now have Ecology as a core SSRM course, I thought that switching the prerequisite to that course may solve this enrollment issue (and also better prepare students for taking HD). Ecology's prerequisite right now is just a General Life Science course.

Andy George is also in the process of updating the prerequisite for Regional Natural History to be a General Life Science course.

Please let us know if you approve of those changes and we'll submit the paperwork to our department.

Hope you both are doing well!

Christine

Course Syllabus for
ENGL 117 Introduction to Fiction (Genre)

This Course Qualifies as a Pitt State Pathway Course

The Pitt State Pathway curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Catalog Description

An introduction to fiction, emphasizing literature as a reflection of culture in order to broaden students' understanding of the human condition via discussion and critical analysis.

Course Objectives

Students will

1. Understand their literary heritage by reading traditional and contemporary literature primarily in a single genre: poetry, fiction, or drama.
2. Recognize a global perspective of literatures and cultures through readings by men and women in English and in translation from other languages.
3. Understand the readings through the use of other genres, film, or other media.

Nature of the Course

Each instructor will determine how best to implement the goals and objectives and how to teach the genres as above, but all students can expect that the course will foster critical reading and critical thinking skills.

Pitt State Pathway Essential Element to be covered in this course:

Human Experience within a global context Essential Studies

Understanding the diverse nature, meanings, or functions of creative endeavors through the study of literature, music, theater, visual arts, or related forms of expression help us understand ourselves. Competency in this element means:

- Applying cultural concepts and/or methodologies in the analysis of literary, performing, visual, or other art forms;
- Analyzing how literature, performance, the visual arts, or other creative endeavors respond to and influence society and culture;
- Analyzing creative endeavors in a contextual framework, such as critical theory, aesthetics, philosophy of art, or rhetoric;

- Demonstrating concepts that characterize a polycentric view of the world in contrast to an ethnocentric perspective.

The Pitt State Pathway Companion Element to be covered in this course is:
Diverse perspectives within a Global Context:
Valuing different perspectives and analyzing the interrelationships between them leads to global respect and understanding. Competency in this element means:

- Applying multiple perspectives to personal, social, cultural, disciplinary, environmental, race, ethnicity, gender, nationhood, religion, or class interactions;
- Analyzing connections between worldviews, power structures, or experiences of multiple cultures in a historical or contemporary context;
- Analyzing issues of diversity (i.e., religious, racial, sexual orientations, gender, or disabilities).

Learning Outcome: Students will explore global systems conscientiously.

The Pitt State Pathway Learning Outcome Level of this course is Benchmark: Students will be able to recognize that various art forms respond to and influence society and culture.

Methods
To achieve our instructional objectives, instructors will employ lecture, discussion, and student oral and written response. Faculty may also employ some combination of other instructional methods, including worksheets, small-group work, journals, readings in literary criticism, creative writing assignments, videos and films, out-of-class responses, role playing, outside speakers, etc.

Assessment
Student work will be evaluated on the basis of examinations and papers. Faculty may also employ some combination of other evaluation methods, including worksheets, small group work, journals, creative writing assignments, in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, quizzes, etc.

Course Syllabus for
ENGL 118 Introduction to Poetry (Genre)

This Course Qualifies as a Pitt State Pathway Course
The Pitt State Pathway curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Catalog Description
An introduction to poetry, emphasizing literature as a reflection of culture, in order to broaden students' understanding of the human condition via discussion and critical analysis.

Course Objectives
Students will

1. Understand their literary heritage by reading traditional and contemporary literature primarily in a single genre: poetry, fiction, or drama.
2. Recognize a global perspective of literatures and cultures through readings by men and women in English and in translation from other languages.
3. Understand the readings through the use of other genres, film, or other media.

Nature of the Course
Each instructor will determine how best to implement the goals and objectives and how to teach the genres as above, but all students can expect that the course will foster critical reading and critical thinking skills.

Pitt State Pathway Essential Element to be covered in this course:
Human Experience within a global context Essential Studies

Understanding the diverse nature, meanings, or functions of creative endeavors through the study of literature, music, theater, visual arts, or related forms of expression help us understand ourselves. Competency in this element means:

- Applying cultural concepts and/or methodologies in the analysis of literary, performing, visual, or other art forms;
- Analyzing how literature, performance, the visual arts, or other creative endeavors respond to and influence society and culture;
- Analyzing creative endeavors in a contextual framework, such as critical theory, aesthetics, philosophy of art, or rhetoric;

- Demonstrating concepts that characterize a polycentric view of the world in contrast to an ethnocentric perspective.

The Pitt State Pathway Companion Element to be covered in this course is:
Diverse perspectives within a Global Context:
Valuing different perspectives and analyzing the interrelationships between them leads to global respect and understanding. Competency in this element means:

- Applying multiple perspectives to personal, social, cultural, disciplinary, environmental, race, ethnicity, gender, nationhood, religion, or class interactions;
- Analyzing connections between worldviews, power structures, or experiences of multiple cultures in a historical or contemporary context;
- Analyzing issues of diversity (i.e., religious, racial, sexual orientations, gender, or disabilities).

Learning Outcome: Students will explore global systems conscientiously.

The Pitt State Pathway Learning Outcome Level of this course is Benchmark: Students will be able to recognize that various art forms respond to and influence society and culture.

Methods
To achieve our instructional objectives, instructors will employ lecture, discussion, and student oral and written response. Faculty may also employ some combination of other instructional methods, including worksheets, small-group work, journals, readings in literary criticism, creative writing assignments, videos and films, out-of-class responses, role playing, outside speakers, etc.

Assessment
Student work will be evaluated on the basis of examinations and papers. Faculty may also employ some combination of other evaluation methods, including worksheets, small group work, journals, creative writing assignments, in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, quizzes, etc.

Course Syllabus for
English 121: Introduction to Anti-Racist Literature

This Course Qualifies as a Pitt State Pathway Course
The Pitt State Pathway curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Catalog Description
ENGL 121: Introduction to Anti-Racist Literature. This course introduces anti-racist literature across multiple genres. This course is designed to increase students' awareness, knowledge, and critical skills related to racial diversity, human rights, social and economic justice

This course fits in the PSP Human Systems with the companion element of Social Responsibility in these ways:

When we read a play like "A Raisin in the Sun," we aren't just reading a play about a family. We are investigating systems of institutionalized racism, redlining, the great Northern Migration, Jim Crow, and also personal and social responsibility as seen in the movements represented by different characters and their choices. When we read poems by Phillis Wheatley, an enslaved person, but also poems by 20th and 21st century poets about or in the voice of Phillis Wheatley, we are also discussing these same systems. We are considering anew the role of Nathaniel Wheatley as depicted in Robert Hayden's eyes. We analyze a variety of perspectives.

Nature of the Course: Students will read and analyze original texts of literature with a focus on human systems, and students will be presented with historically and socially relevant contexts to understand intersectionality amongst various systems. Students can expect that the course will foster critical reading and critical thinking skills by applying cultural concepts and/or methodologies in the analysis of literature and through analyzing how literature responds to and influences society and culture.

Course Objectives and Goals: By the end of this course, students will

Apply multiple perspectives to personal, social, cultural, disciplinary, environmental, race, ethnicity, gender, nationhood, religion, or class interactions;

Analyze connections between worldviews, power structures, or experiences of multiple cultures in a historical and contemporary context;

Analyze issues of diversity (i.e. religious, racial, sexual orientations, gender, or disabilities).

Understand social responsibilities in connection with race and other diversities by reading and analyzing traditional and contemporary literature in multiple genres and from diverse cultures

Student Learning Outcome: Students will show ability to analyze literature and appropriate human systems.

Methods

To achieve our instructional objectives, instructors will employ lecture, discussion, and student oral and written response. Faculty may also employ some combination of other instructional methods, including worksheets, small-group work, journals, readings inliterary criticism, creative writing assignments, videos and films, out-of-class cultural events (e.g. poetry readings, etc.), in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, roleplaying, outside speakers, etc.

Assessment

Student work will be evaluated on the basis of examinations and papers. Faculty may also employ some combination of other evaluation methods, including worksheets, small group work, journals, creative writing assignments, in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, quizzes, etc

Representative Assignments in a WL section:

Methods and Assessments including the Writing to Learn Statement of Intent and a Philosophy of Writing:

In this course we will discuss the literature you read for homework daily. We will use the appropriate terminology. We will spend class time on close reading. We will discuss the cultural context as well as the aesthetic aspects of the literature.

Additionally, you will write frequently as a way to learn course material. The writing will range from short informal in-class writing assignments and homework assignments, to short answer/essay exams, and to formal papers (an explication, and a research presentation). Expect to write about course content every week.

Writing serves several important functions. Writing things down helps us remember information. Writing also helps us work through our thoughts which helps us to come to a clearer understanding of our beliefs and ideas about complex issues. In this course we will write frequently as a way to learn course material. Also, you will learn the major concepts in this course better by writing about them and thereby taking responsibility for your own learning. We learn to write well by practicing writing and by expecting to go through several stages of process before coming to a final product. This is why you will sometimes be required to show me a rough draft of an assignment, and this is why you are encouraged to take writing to the Writing Center. You will receive written feedback on your writing in the form of comments on the paper. When using sources, you will give credit for the words or ideas of others by documenting your sources using the MLA style of documentation.

Reading Response: Your job is to put the reading in context in a way that both helps you process the learning we're doing in the class (using new and appropriate vocabulary, asking relevant questions, contextualizing through research and making connections to other learning.

Reading Responses (Exploratory and Formal) and Quizzes: Exploratory reading responses (RR) are generally 1 and 1/2 pages each typed after reading assignments. These responses may be introspective and informal, but they must stay on focus. For a typical exploratory reading response, start your process by looking up the meanings of any words from the literature you did not know (don't just copy the dictionary definition, but decide if it's useful to discuss how the word works/means in context with the poem or story), go on to pose worthwhile questions about the readings, and then try to discover possible answers. While you may begin w/these questions or first impressions, your goal is to extend your line of thought beyond initial reactions. Try to not only summarize the poems but to talk about your thoughts on the chapter's reading overall and relate the works in each section to the terms and ideas learned in the chapters. Work where you have questions, curiosity, difficulty, or particular interest. Reading responses will be judged based on development of thought, focus on the assignment, clarity, coherence, and logic. I'm looking for development of ideas, risk taking in thought and logical thought in these exploratory responses. Feedback and Grading on RR: You will receive feedback when your work needs improvement. I will answer any questions you pose in the reading responses that are not covered in class. These will be graded based on if you followed the assignment and write reasonably clear prose. You will lose points if they're late, untyped, or too short (lacking development).

Thematic Analysis (WL Component; 4-8 p.): Focus on thoroughness, logical thinking, clear style, organization. We'll use the textbook apparatus on comparative analysis to prepare. For both essays, see "Writing about Literature" 1914-1934, "The Literature Research Essay" 1951-1961, "Quotation, Citation, and Documentation" 1962-1965, and "Critical Approaches" A1-A5 & A15-A16 & "African American and Ethnic Literary Studies" A20-A22.

Research Presentation: This assignment is part paper (WL component; 4-8 p.), part research project, part presentation to the class. The class will be working on research regarding Rankine. Each student will be responsible for a section of the book. You are expected to focus on one or two poetic elements for this group of poems and to focus on context. At your optional conference where you will receive feedback, I will need to see printed off sources (2-4), and a rough draft. You may want to include audio or visual elements in your presentation, particularly to help explain allusions and context for the poems you're presenting. The research for this project is minimal and may be historical, literary, psychological, or of any type that appropriately relates to your group of poems. In your paper and presentation, you do not necessarily have to discuss your whole section. But you may not organize your paper so that each paragraph focuses on a different poem. These paragraphs are not mini-explications or mini-reading responses, instead you will move to the more analytical stages of comparison and synthesis. Each paragraph will have a clear main idea that can be supported by looking at multiple poems. You will receive more information in class and through your textbook reading. Grading based on PSU rubric (hyperlinked).
https://www.pittstate.edu/office/writingcenter/_files/documents/psu_writingrubric_abbreviated.pdf See also: Rankine Research Presentation (hyperlinked).

Grading and Assessment: The writing component of a WL course represents a significant portion of the course grade, and a student cannot pass a WL course without earning a passing grade on the writing component of the course. Additionally, you must complete all major assigned work and tests in order to pass the class. You must attend class on test days and your presentation days in order to be eligible to pass the course. I will deal w/late assignments on a case-by-case basis, and I reserve the right to refuse late work. You will receive five grades; here's the breakdown:

- 10% Participation, Memorized Poem
- 30% Reading Responses & Quizzes
- 20% Research Paper
- 15% Thematic Analysis
- 15% Context/Research assignments

Shell Syllabus for Human Systems Social Responsibility 100-level

Department of English and Modern Languages
College of Arts and Sciences Fall Semester, 20XX

Course Syllabus for
ENGL 122 Intro to Women's Literature

This Course Qualifies as a Pitt State Pathway Course
The Pitt State Pathway (PSP) curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Catalog Description
ENGL 122. Intro to Women's Literature. 3 hours. The course introduces literature by women across multiple genres and includes major topics in feminist thought such as intersectionality, gender, women's bodies, activism, and considers political and social institutions that shape women's lives.

This course fits in the PSP Human Systems with the companion element of Social Responsibility in these ways:

When we read a story like "The Yellow Wallpaper," we aren't just reading a story about a woman's mental illness. We are investigating systems of institutionalized oppression of women, of what it means to be a full citizen, the roles of medicine within other systems. When we read "A Jury of Her Peers" or "Trifles" we are considering systems of justice through the lenses of the personal level, the humanitarian, and the citizen, and the law. We analyze a variety of perspectives, roles, and systems in works like these.

Nature of the Course: Students will read and analyze original texts of women's literature with a focus on human systems, and students will be presented with historically and socially relevant contexts to understand intersectionality amongst various systems. Students can expect that the course will foster critical reading and critical thinking skills by applying cultural concepts and/or methodologies in the analysis of literature and through analyzing how literature responds to and influences society and culture.

Course Objectives and Goals: By the end of this course, students will
Apply multiple perspectives to personal, social, cultural, disciplinary, environmental, race, ethnicity, gender, nationhood, religion, or class interactions and the institutions that shape women's lives;

Analyze connections between worldviews, power structures, or experiences of multiple cultures in historical and contemporary feminist contexts;

Analyze issues of gender and intersectionality (i.e. religious, racial, sexual orientations, gender, or disabilities).

Understand social responsibilities in connection with gender and other diversities by reading and analyzing traditional and contemporary literature in multiple genres.

Student Learning Outcome: Students will show ability to analyze literature and appropriate human systems.

Methods

To achieve our instructional objectives, instructors will employ lecture, discussion, and student oral and written response. Faculty may also employ some combination of other instructional methods, including worksheets, small-group work, journals, readings inliterary criticism, creative writing assignments, videos and films, out-of-class cultural events (e.g. poetry readings, etc.), in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, roleplaying, outside speakers, etc.

Assessment

Student work will be evaluated on the basis of examinations and papers. Faculty may also employ some combination of other evaluation methods, including worksheets, small group work, journals, creative writing assignments, in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, quizzes, etc

Shell Syllabus for Human Systems Social Responsibility 100-level

Course Syllabus for
Engl 123 The Citizen in Literature

This Course Qualifies as a Pitt State Pathway Course
The Pitt State Pathway (PSP) curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Catalog Description
ENGL 123. The Citizen in Literature. The course introduces literature that investigates individual roles and responsibilities of the citizen and considers the ways human systems such as class, race, and political structures interconnect at all levels.

This course fits in the PSP Human Systems with the companion element of Social Responsibility in these ways:

When we read a book like Claudia Rankine's Citizen we are asked not just to consider the consequences of microagressions but to consider how these microagressions can born of systems of government, business, class, and other systems of oppression, and how all of these things underly what it means to be a citizen for a person of color in the United States. Students are presented with a variety of perspectives in a text like this and are asked to analyze how various systems affect the individual as well as the larger society. When the women in "Trifles" uncover the motives for a crime, they consider their roles as citizens in a male-dominated society in a time when women's rights were subsumed by their husbands. The title for the short story version "A Jury of Her Peers" illustrates the failures of criminal justice systems for certain classes and groups, much the way Etheridge Knight's poetry critiques the criminal justice system as seen from inside the jail, and draws a line from the enslavement of African Americans to the prison system of the 20th Century. Literature, across a variety of cultures, is rife with investigations of citizenship. Students analyzing a work like Antigone or even Oedipus, must consider the role of government and the role of the individual.

Nature of the Course: Students will read and analyze original texts of literature with a focus on human systems, and and be presented with historically and socially relevant contexts to understand intersectionality amongst various systems. Students can expect that the course will foster critical reading and critical thinking skills by applying cultural concepts and/or methodologies in the analysis of literature and through analyzing how literature responds to and influences society and culture.

Course Objectives and Goals: By the end of this course, students will

Apply multiple perspectives to personal, social, cultural, disciplinary, environmental, race, ethnicity, gender, nationhood, religion, or class interactions and the institutions that shape the lives of citizens;

Analyze connections between worldviews, power structures, or experiences of multiple cultures and how these systems play on individual lives;

Understand social responsibilities by reading and analyzing traditional and contemporary literature in multiple genres.

Student Learning Outcome: Students will show ability to analyze literature and appropriate human systems.

To achieve our instructional objectives, instructors will employ lecture, discussion, and student oral and written response. Faculty may also employ some combination of other instructional methods, including worksheets, small-group work, journals, readings inliterary criticism, creative writing assignments, videos and films, out-of-class cultural events (e.g. poetry readings, etc.), in-class writing, panels, out-of-class responses, roleplaying, outside speakers, etc.

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.

The proposed course would add to the department's Pitt State Pathway offerings but would not chance the curriculum or program in any way.

Proposed Course:

Course Number: 124

Title of Course: Health and Literature

Credit Hours: 3

Date first offered: WF22 (Semester/Year) ☒ Fall ☒ Spring ☐ Summer (check all that apply)

Prerequisite: None

Course Description (as it will appear in the next catalog):
Exploration of human health and wellness including disability, chronic disease and mental health through literature and reflections on health habits and health choices.. Will include two or more genres: poetry, fiction, or drama.

Purpose/Justification for Proposed Course:
Students will understand wellness strategies for lifelong health through the reading of literary and other health-related texts.

Objectives/Student Learning Outcomes (as it will appear in the syllabus)
Learn about health literacies to improve your own communication around health and wellbeing.
- Understand how patients are active agents in the seeking of healthcare, and think about the patient perspective through assigned readings.
- Articulate how literature and writing can serve as a way for health professionals to understand patients with empathy and care.
- Improve writing skills through examining and analyzing texts related to health and medicine, and creating written documents around concepts related to the medical and health humanities.

Assessment Strategies [e.g., exams, projects, university rubric, etc. (as it will appear in the syllabus)]

Reading Surveys: You will complete Reading Surveys over assigned readings to serve as reading checks over the course of the semester.

- Discussions: We will complete a number of Discussion forum activities in Canvas during the semester. Discussions may be reflective in nature, or ask you to answer specific questions in relation to our readings.
- Health Narrative (WL): Our first WL assignment will ask you to give an account of a personal experience related to health or medicine.
- Rhetorical Analysis of a Medical or Health Document (WL): For our second WL assignment, you will write a rhetorical analysis of a medical or health-related document. For example, this could be a website focused on a health-related topic or an article about health or wellness.

Synthesis Paper on Health or Wellness topic (WL): Our final WL assignment asks you to write on a health or wellness topic of your choice that presents two opposing perspectives. This assignment will consist of two parts: a proposal and a synthesis paper.

- Course Reflection: You will compose a short reflection paper at the end of our course for our final exam.

If you wish to attach a syllabus, you may attach it to the end of this document as part of the packet.

Pitt State Pathway Mission Statement
The Pitt State Pathway curriculum serves as the heart of the university education by fostering interdisciplinary competencies that typify the educated person. It is designed to facilitate the development of key proficiencies including communication and information literacy. The Pitt State Pathway curriculum provides a transformational experience that challenges students to think creatively and critically, and to immerse themselves in the productive examination of humans in their global setting. By encouraging the development of skills that promote life-long learning, the Pitt State Pathway fosters a sense of personal responsibility, an appreciation of diversity, and an understanding of interconnectedness in our truly global society.

Pitt State Pathway Outcome: Wellness Strategies
This course fulfills requirements toward the Pitt State Pathway. Wellness encompasses the concepts and importance of physical fitness and/or activity over the lifetime, chronic disease prevention/management, nutritional knowledge, mental health awareness, and continuous involvement in an exercise or physical/leisure time activity program to ensure students create a healthy lifestyle plan throughout their lifetime.

Competency in this element means:
- Understanding chronic disease prevention/management;
- Understanding the principles of behavior and mental processes.

Student Learning Outcome:
- Students will understand wellness strategies for lifelong health through the reading of literary and other health-related texts. (Benchmark)

Required Texts

- Skloot, Rebecca. The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks. Crown Publishing, 2010.
- Narrative Matters: Writing to Change the Healthcare System. Ed. Jessica Bylander. Johns Hopkins UP, 2020
- Readings as assigned in our course schedule and linked in Canvas

🏫Course Description:
This is a course that is focused on the health and medical humanities. Our course will focus on an exploration of human health and wellness, including disability, chronic disease, and mental health through literature, as well as patient stories and narratives from health professionals.

🏫Course Objectives and Goals
By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- Learn about health literacies to improve your own communication around health and wellbeing.
- Understand how patients are active agents in the seeking of healthcare, and think about the patient perspective through assigned readings.
- Articulate how literature and writing can serve as a way for health professionals to understand patients with empathy and care.
- Improve writing skills through examining and analyzing texts related to health and medicine, and creating written documents around concepts related to the medical and health humanities.

☐ ■ Course Assignments
All assignment descriptions are in Canvas and will be assessed using the PSU Writing Rubric. All reading surveys and in class writing assignments will be assessed by the instructor and given a grade of complete or incomplete. Feedback for all WL assignments will be included in the rubric in Canvas and shared in comments on the paper in Canvas. Because this is a WL course, all writing assignments must have a passing grade in order to earn course credit. You will use APA citation style and format for all written assignments.

- Reading Surveys: You will complete Reading Surveys over assigned readings to serve as reading checks over the course of the semester.
- Discussions: We will complete a number of Discussion forum activities in Canvas during the semester. Discussions may be reflective in nature, or ask you to answer specific questions in relation to our readings.

Thanks for your time and input. Please feel free to forward this to a faculty member you think needs to see it. Forgive me if I have sent it to you in error.

All 100-level course numbers are probable numbers, but not yet approved. All 300-level exist.

Engl is attempting to create Engl 124 Health and Literature as a WL, Online Course in the Pathways category G. Wellness Strategies (or as an elective). We want to aim this course at Nursing, Pre-Med, Psychology, and Social Work students. If you would support such a course, please email me so that we can add that to our forms for course creation and Pathways inclusion. I'm interested in your thoughts about if this would meet the needs of your students.

Engl is attempting to create Engl 121 Intro to Anti-Racist Literature, Engl 122 Intro to Women's Literature, and Engl 123 The Citizen in Literature as new courses in the E2 Category Social Responsibility. We also are attempting to add new but existing courses Engl 316 Women's Literature and 311 Anti-Racist Literature to this category. We hope some all of these courses can be listed permanently as choices for the WGS minor. The 300-levels are newly on the books. Browyn, if you could send a letter of support that would be helpful, and if you want these permanently on the books for WGS, please let me know if I can help with paperwork.

Laura,

I support adding ENGL 316 and 311) to the minor permanently through the legislative process and would appreciate assistance with the paperwork. Also, as long as the minor is to be revised, I believe I would support the addition of the entry level courses you propose.

For the pathway, WGS recommends WGS 399 Global Women's Issues for category E1 and WGS 200 Introduction to Women's Studies for E2. Beyond these, any course in the pathway (lower or upper division) that is also listed as an elective in the minor would be taken for credit towards the minor, which would add seats to those sections.

Thank you,

We have these new or proposed courses that might be added to the Multi-Cultural Minor: Engl 313 Multi-Cultural Literature (which we hope to add to Pathways E1), Engl 311 Anti-Racist Literature, Engl 316 Women's Literature (all new, all on books), and these that are proposed for which we would appreciate letters of support: Engl 121 Intro to Anti-Racist Literature, Engl 122 Intro to Women's Literature, and Engl 123 The Citizen in Literature.

Thank you for your time. Our deadline for completing our documents and adding any supporting letters is Friday, February 25.

Everyone,
Please accept this Letter of Support for the new courses, which are being proposed by the Department of English. As the Director of the School of Nursing, I understand that there is a compelling need for these proposed courses to assist in a well-rounded background for nurses.

I wish to endorse the course, ENGL124 Health and Literature as a WL, Online Course in the Pathways category G. Wellness Strategies (or as an elective). This course will benefit Nursing, Pre-Med, Psychology, and Social Work students. This course would certainly meet the needs of our students.

The Irene Ransom Bradley School of Nursing is focusing on the Determinants of Health as a thread in our curriculum and I believe these courses would assist with our efforts in promoting Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI), especially the courses, ENGL 121, Intro to Anti-Racist Literature and ENGL 122 Intro to Women's Literature. I endorse these courses to be listed permanently as choices for the WGS minor.

In addition, ENGL 313 Multi-Cultural Literature, ENGL 311 Anti-Racist Literature, and ENGL 316 Women's Literature, would be beneficial for Nursing majors.

Thank you for considering the addition of these courses as contributions to the background of a Nursing major.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Giefer

Essays and stories provided on Canvas

Course Objectives/Student Learning Outcomes:

This course will introduce students to the genre of horror as seen in both fiction and film with an emphasis on the historical development of the genre. Students will analyze and write about horror within historical, theoretical, and formal contexts.

Over the course of the semester, students will be able to:

- Describe the history of the horror genre.
- Describe horror literature's subgenres and their conventions.
- Analyze horror literature within a historical, critical, and formalist contexts by reading traditional and contemporary literature in two or more genres.
- Recognize a global perspective of literature and culture through readings by men and women from a variety of cultures.
- Express views on the horror genre both verbally and in writing.

Writing to Learn Component:

Philosophy of Writing: Written communication is an essential component of any form of higher education. It demonstrates your ability to think critically and to articulate that thinking in a clear and understandable way. Also, literacy has become as important as ever in the 21st century; written communication is expected more than ever and takes place across a number of media. Finally, it's specifically crucial to the study of literature as well as most disciplines within the humanities. The material we're covering is complex as well as fairly subjective. Your writing provides me the chance to evaluate how well you're grasping the material.

Statement of Intent: The Writing to Learn component of this course requires that you write at least 2,100 words (roughly 7pp) of formal writing over the course of the semester. These will take the form of 3 700-word essays. Writing will be submitted and returned with my feedback on Canvas. Your writing will be assessed through a writing rubric, which is attached to the syllabus and available on Canvas. Due dates for formal writing assignments can be found in the course schedule. Because this is a Writing to Learn course, you must complete the writing portion of the class with a "D" average in order to pass the course.

Writing Center: Students are encouraged to use the services provided by the Writing Center. The Writing Center offers face-to-face and online consultations at any stage of the writing process for any type of writing. It is located in 112 Axe Library and online at http://www.pittstate.edu/office/writing_center. Appointments can be made online or in person. All services are provided free of charge.

Course Policies:

Attendance: You have 5 unexcused absences (roughly 15% of classes). Each unexcused absence beyond 5 will result in a reduction of 5% of your final grade. University-sponsored events and religious holidays are the only absences considered excused (I'll need to see something in writing). You must be engaged in the class to be counted as "present," too; if you're using your cell phone in class or talking with another student, I will mark you absent for the day.

Make-Up Work: Quizzes can't be made up; however, your 5 lowest quiz scores will be dropped. Essays may be submitted late, but will receive a 5% deduction from the essay's grade for each day late (including weekends). This includes lateness due to last-minute technical difficulties.

Communication: The easiest way to communicate with me is through Canvas, but email will work, too. I respond to messages and emails during office hours, but endeavor to respond within 48 hours (excluding the weekend). For more complicated issues and questions about grades, please see me during my office hours.

Extra Credit: You may revise the first two essays for additional points, but there's otherwise no extra credit.

Academic Dishonesty: I have a zero-tolerance policy when it comes to cheating. If you get caught cheating on quizzes or essays, you will receive an F in the course without exception. Use of sources must follow MLA formatting guidelines, and I expect you, as college students, to know what constitutes plagiarism.

Students with Disabilities: I will do everything possible to accommodate you if you have a disability, but I must be notified 2 weeks in advance by Student Disability Services.

Assessment:

Your final score will be the average of your scores in the following categories:

Reading Quizzes: You will take a short quiz each time there is a reading. Your quiz score average will also be used to determine the "reading" portion of your participation.

Formal Writing: You will submit 3 short essays (700-900 words) over the course of the semester. These will be scored according to the course's writing rubric (which is available on Canvas). If you are unhappy with your score, you have the opportunity to revise and resubmit your first 2 essays. You must see me in my office to discuss the essay to get credit for a re-submission.

Participation: You are expected to complete the readings, attend class, and actively engage in discussion. Doing all 3 will earn you an "A," doing 2 will earn you a "B," doing 1 will earn you a "C," and doing none will earn you an "F."

We are experiencing a changing academic and cultural environment. The minor in multicultural studies is designed to satisfy the student's desire for a more flexible academic course preparation track, while answering calls from the Kansas Board of Regents for more multicultural academic programs.
The minor in multicultural studies can enrich the student's learning experience and strengthen the student's credentials in search for employment in our increasingly diverse economic and cultural environment. The minor in Multicultural Studies can complement a number of majors, such as, English, communication, history, social sciences, economics, modern language and literatures, business, psychology and education.
For more information contact Dr. Harry L. Humphries, Coordinator of Multicultural Studies, hhumphries@pittstate.edu, 317 Russ Hall, or the Department of Social Sciences, 412 Russ Hall.

Kris and Gary,

Each of the 5 Art History courses are appropriate for this minor. I do not know of other courses within the Department of Art that should also be included.

I am in full support of this. Let me know if I can help in any way.

Jamie,
Gary and I are working to update the Multicultural Studies Minor, and in doing so, we are revisiting the courses available for the minor.

Currently, the minor allows
ART 178

Based on the course descriptions in the catalog, it appears it make sense to maintain that course in the list and to add
ART 288 Intro to Art History I
ART 289 Intro to Art History II
ART 688 History of Modern Art
ART 689 Contemporary Issues in Art

Do you know of any reason why these courses could not or should not be listed as electives in the minor? Or do you have any objections to us proposing these changes? Finally, are there other courses regularly offered by your program that would make good additions to the Multicultural Studies Minor?

Kris and Gary,

Great idea! This makes sense to me, but what about an option that would allow our students to take special topics courses in diverse areas of world history? I'm thinking of Tarquin Schwartz's offerings on Africa and the Middle East as well as Jonathan Dresner's courses on East Asia. I know it might be hard to legislate such a wide array of courses, some of which aren't on the books, but the history program has a wide array of course opportunities that would be idea for a multicultural studies minor.

Re: PHIL courses on the MCS Minor course list

Don Viney <dviney@pittstate.edu>

To: Kris Lawson <klawson@pittstate.edu>

Kris,

I am sure that the two courses (on Eastern and Western religions) would be ideal for the Multicultural Studies Minor (MSM). Knowledge about religion continues to be an important way to connect with, to understand, and to appreciate the varieties of cultural forms on this planet. PHIL 321 and PHIL 322 certainly provide a more in-depth and focused look at the world's religions than PHIL 231 (the survey course on World Religions) can provide. PHIL 320 (Philosophy of Religion) is also a good fit for the MSM. Most any religion that lasts more than a generation develops critical tools and ideas for understanding itself and others, and these tools and ideas are a major aspect of what is taught in PHIL 320. I am also bold enough to think that Introduction to Philosophy (PHIL 103) and Ethics (PHIL 105) are important avenues for gaining some critical distance on one's own cultural standards and mores and thereby serve as a bridge one may cross in order to understand other forms of life and thought.

Thank you for thinking of these philosophy courses as vital components of the Multicultural Studies Minor.

Kris and Gary,
Hi. I am including Dr. Barbara McClaskey on this email. I think she would be the one to answer this question most accurately.

Best wishes,

Subject: NURS course on the Multicultural Studies Minor course list

Cheryl,
Gary Wilson and I are working to update the Multicultural Studies Minor, and in doing so, we are revisiting the courses available for the minor.

Currently, the minor allows
NURS 745 Transcultural Health Care

Based on the course descriptions in the catalog, it appears it would make sense to replace this elective with
NURS 445 Transcultural Health Care

Do you know of any reason why this course could not or should not be listed as an elective in the minor? Or do you have any objections to us proposing this change? Finally, are there other courses regularly offered by your program that would make good additions to the Multicultural Studies Minor?

Subject: Question about ENGL/MLL courses for Multicultural Studies Minor...

Celia,
On 3/2/22 Kris Lawson emailed you regarding the ENGL/MLL and COMM courses to be included in the Multicultural Studies Minor. She heard back from you with a forwarded email from Alicia Mason regarding the COMM courses but did not hear from you regarding the ENGL/MLL courses. She asked me to follow up as they are hoping to finalize the revision before the end of the semester.

The ENGL courses to be included as options:
ENGL 220
ENGL 315
ENGL 565
ENGL 566
ENGL 571

The MLL courses to be included as options:
MLL 124
MLL 158
MLL 221
MLL 251

If you could email Kris (klawson@pittstate.edu) and let here know it would be appreciated.

Revision for: ☐ Major ☒ Minor ☐ Emphasis ☐ Certificate

Department: ETECH College: COT

Submission Date: 3/31/22 Revision Effective: Fall, 22 (Year)

Contact Person: Jacob Lehman ☒ Faculty member ☐ Chair

Name of Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate: Manufacturing Management

If proposing a name change to major or minor/emphasis/certificate, indicate Proposed Name Change:

Description of Change: Substituting MECET 121: Engineering Graphics I for MFGET 160: Manufacturing Graphics

Rationale for Change (include changes to curriculum objectives): Manufacturing Graphics (MFGET 160) is no longer being offered, our students need to take Engineering Graphics (MECET 121) instead to meet their CAD requirements

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any degree program or minor/emphasis/certificate at any other Regent university?
☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation.

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any other department's/college's/unit's curricula or programs at Pittsburg State University?
☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.

Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate

Copy and paste the existing curriculum as it currently appears in the online catalog:
Management Minor
__ MFGET-160 Manufacturing Graphics (3 hours)
__ MFGET-263 Manufacturing Methods I (2 hours)
__ MFGET-268 Manufacturing Methods I Laboratory (1 hour)
__ ETECH-296 Materials in Industry (3 hours)
__ MFGET-367 Manufacturing Methods II (4 hours)
__ MFGET-405 Quality Control (3 hours)
__ MFGET-661 Computer Aided Manufacturing (3 hours)
__ MFGET-690 Manufacturing Production Control and Management (3 hours)

Proposed Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate:

List below, the proposed curriculum as you wish it to appear in the online catalog:

Management Minor

__ MECET-121 Engineering Graphics I (3 hours)
__ MFGET-263 Manufacturing Methods I (2 hours)
__ MFGET-268 Manufacturing Methods I Laboratory (1 hour)
__ ETECH-296 Materials in Industry (3 hours)

__ MFGET-405 Quality Control (3 hours)
__ MFGET-661 Computer Aided Manufacturing (3 hours)
__ MFGET-690 Manufacturing Production Control and Management (3 hours)

Additional Questions

1. Additional resources required (e.g. library or multimedia resources, technology, space, major expense, etc.):
   None

2. Will any additional student fees be required (e.g. equipment, clothing, travel, licensing, etc.)?
   ☐ Yes ☒ No If "yes," please realize that it will need to gain approval of the President's Council.

   Please give the rationale for additional student fees:

   ———

3. Will this revision have specific PittState Pathway courses required? ☒ Yes ☐ No
   Please realize that this requirement will need to gain approval of the PittState Pathway Committee.

4. Will this revision affect any education majors? ☐ Yes ☒ No
   If "yes," please realize that this requirement will need to have the approval of the Council for Teacher Education.

5. What additional costs will be required for this modification (e.g. staffing, equipment, etc.)?
   No

Additional Questions for certificate only:

1. Are students pursuing only this certificate eligible for federal financial assistance based on federal guidelines? (minimum of 24 hours) ☐ Yes ☐ No

2. Does the course content contained within this certificate provide relevance to employment opportunities or meet professional objectives for the student? ☐ Yes ☐ No

   If "yes," to both questions, it is the department's responsibility to send a copy of this legislation form to the Director of Financial Assistance to initiate Department of Education approval.

This course is a service course for other programs within ETECH, as well as a PSP elective; however, there will be no significant changes made to content, so there should be no effect on student outcomes. ETECH stakeholders were present at the meeting disucssing changes; see attachment "02-23-2022 MECET meeting minutes"

Purpose/Justification for Revision to Course: Minor changes to description to reflect the recommended sequence within MECET and Mechanical CAD programs, and to address needs of stakeholders

Existing Course:

Course Number: MECET 121

Title of Course: Engineering Graphics I

Credit Hours: 3

Prerequisite: N/A

Course Description (as it appears in the current catalog): Introduction to fundamental principles of graphic communication. Use of computer aided design software to produce 2-D sketches, 3-D geometry, and dimensioned 2-D orthographic views, and use of manual methods for sketching.

Proposed Course:

Course Number: MECET 121

Title of Course: Engineering Graphics I

Credit Hours: 3

Prerequisite: N/A

Course Description (as it will appear in the next catalog): Introduction to fundamental principles of graphic communication. Use of computer aided design software to produce 2-D sketches, 3-D geometry, and introduction of analysis tools. Introduction to Additive Manufacturing. Attendees:

1. Professor Murray
2. Dr. Maxwell
3. Dr. Miller
4. Prof. Jacob Lehman (Manufacturing)
5. Prof. Dan Speilbusch (Plastics)

Revise Engineering Graphics sequence

- MECET faculty decided at 02/02/22 meeting to rename sequence to reflect flow of content and relation to each other
    - MECET 121 – Engineering Graphics I
    - MECET 226 – Engineering Graphics II
    - MECET 323 – Industrial Graphics
    - MECET 528 – Engineering Graphics III
- Maxwell provided list of topics currently taught in MECET 121, 226, 323 and 528
- MFGET and PET are customers of 121 & 226, so their input was sought for topics to include
- After discussion, the list shown below was adopted; MECET 323 will cover AutoCAD to address concern from MECET IAB
- Descriptions for catalog were discussed and the following were adopted:
    - 121: Introduction to fundamental principles of graphic communication. Use of computer aided design software to produce 2-D sketches, 3-D geometry, and introduce analysis tools. Introduction to Additive Manufacturing. Investigate the role of designers in industry.
    - 226: Use of computer aided design software to generate complex 3-D geometry and communicate detail design information, dimensioning and tolerancing, etc. Prerequisite: MECET 121 Engineering Graphics I or equivalent.
    - 528: Study of advanced modeling methods to support secondary operations in design, manufacturing and product communication. Topics include: 3D sketching, surfaces, and top down assembly. Prerequisite: MECET 226 Engineering Graphics II.
    - 323: Computer aided drafting techniques, standards and tolerancing methods to prepare design layouts, assembly, detail and installation drawings. Emphasis on 2-D software and 2-D drawings. Prerequisites: MECET 121 Engineering Graphics I.
- Action Item: Miller will begin legislation packets (Each class, curriculum, CAD Certificate)

SolidProfessor

- Murray showed demo of Solid Professor curriculum
- Cost is ~$85 for a single semester, or ~$125 for 4 year subscription.

- Students can access any content while their subscription is active, so it will save them money and allow self-study
- Decided to adopt for the rest of the graphics sequence and MFGET will consider adding content for their classes
    - Murray is already using in 226
    - ACTION ITEM: Spielbusch, Miller & Murray will need to coordinate before Fall '22 to adopt content in 121 that doesn't overlap with 226
    - Idea is that one "shell" will be created that can be shared among all faculty teaching a section that is then imported into Canvas; will hopefully homogenize content among sections

COURSE DESCRIPTION: MECET 121 - Engineering Graphics I. 3 hours (3 hours lecture). Introduction to fundamental principles of graphic communication. Use of computer aided design software to produce 2-D sketches, 3-D geometry, and dimensioned 2-D orthographic views, and use of manual methods for sketching.

TEXTBOOK/MATERIALS REQUIRED

- Shih, R. Parametric Modeling with SolidWorks 2018. SDC Publications. ISBN: 9781630571412
- Electronic Data Storage Device (Jump Drive or Cloud Storage)

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Objective 1 - To develop skills in the use of parametric design software through the creation of 3D models and the conversion of models into 2D drawings and assemblies. (Outcome a)
- Objective 2 - To gain an understanding of the design process and the different communication tools used during this process.
- Objective 3 - To develop proper work habits, including proper use of terminology, dependability, punctuality, and cooperation with teammates and customers.
- Objective 4 - To develop written and oral communication skills supporting technical reporting.
- Objective 5 – Pitt State Pathway Essential Studies Element:
  - Human Systems within A Global Context.
    - Students will describe human organizational systems using a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives. For a detailed description, see the Pitt State Pathway documentation: Level of Student Learning = Benchmark
  - Methods of Assessment for this PSP Essential Studies Element:
    - Students will list the steps of the design process;
    - Students will describe their role in a team of designers;
    - Students will describe how the design process links customer requirements to a final product.
  - Tools used to Assess Student Learning:
    - Students will describe human organizational systems via an oral presentation.
    - A rubric will be used to asses this presentation and the level of student learning.

COURSE TOPICS

- The design process
- Parametric modeling
- Solid geometry concepts
- Constraints and relations
- 2Ddrawing creation
- 2D and 3D annotations
- Auxiliary and section views
- Assembly creation

GRADING SYSTEM: Grades will be based on the following scale and proportions:

90 - 100%	A
80 - 89	B
70 - 79	C
60 - 69	D
0 - 59	F

Tutorial Assignments	30%

Pittsburg State University encourages students to take full advantage of campus resources. Information about the campus resources and other information, notifications, and policies (academic integrity, dead week, etc.) students should be aware of, can be found through the syllabus supplement link for the current semester that can be found on PSU's web site at …
http://www.pittstate.edu/office/registrar/syllabus-supplement.dot

Additional Details/Descriptions:

Course Prerequisites: In order to succeed, a student should have a basic understanding of the Windows operating system (zipping and unzipping files, opening and saving files, etc). Mac products may be used, but it will be up to the student to figure out how to install and maintain the software on his own computer as SolidWorks was designed for Windows. Use of Canvas and the Internet are required in this course. Any prior knowledge about drafting or other Computer Aided Drafting (CAD) packages (e.g. AutoCAD Inventor, Google SketchUp) is useful, but not required.

Attendance: The course meets for lecture 50 minutes three times a week. Attendance will NOT be taken for a grade; however, students are encouraged to attend at least one session Monday/Wednesday to cover questions regarding the week's tutorial assignment. Fridays will typically be reserved for quizzes.

Classroom Etiquette: Students are strongly encouraged to participate in the lectures through early preparation and questions or comments in class but are asked not to monopolize the entire class period. Students are required to behave in a professional manner and respect the learning environment of others. If students must come in late or leave early, please notify the instructor beforehand and do so in a quiet, non-disruptive manner. Please silence and store all electronic devices and refrain from engaging in distracting activities on the computers. The instructor reserves the right to remove any device deemed to be causing a disruption - this includes, but isn't limited to: cell phones, tablets, eReaders, eCigarettes.

Tutorial Assignments: Tutorial assignments from the textbook will be given most weeks and will be demonstrated via YouTube videos and in person; additional exercises from the textbook will also be demonstrated via YouTube. Some class time will be devoted to tutorial work; however, additional work outside of class may be required. Tutorials will typically be due on Friday by 5:00 PM, CST. Your lowest tutorial score will be dropped so no late work or make-ups are permitted.

Methods: Solutions to problems solved on tests and homework must be logical and based on the subjects of the course. A solution must be understood by the student, fellow students, instructor, and other individuals, today and in the future. A standard solution approach will be required to support clear and concise communication of information. A solution will include: student name and assignment title in the file name, expanded feature tree, Mass Properties/Center of Mass window, and should be saved in ISOMETRIC orientation at a zoom level appropriate to the given part. Solutions that do not follow the guidelines may result in no credit.

Quizzes: Quizzes will be given most Fridays during the regular class period. Quizzes must be taken in the normal meeting room/time unless arranged ahead of time via email. Material will include topics from tutorial work, lectures and textbook readings, as well as any additional material presented in class. Quizzes will generally be 30-50 minutes and will be closed book and notes. Your lowest scored quiz will be dropped and, therefore, no late work or make-ups are permitted.

Final Examination: The final exam will be comprehensive, covering all course topics. The exam will consist of both a written component and a SolidWorks component.

Team Project: Students will be divided into teams to work on a project that will span the entire semester. This project will be explained in detail during class sessions. Peer evaluations of your teammates' contributions will be part of the grading criteria.

Grading Policy: Students must maintain a passing grade in the following course categories: Tutorial Assignments, Quizzes, Team Project, and Final Exam. A failing grade in any of these categories will result in a grade of D in the class, regardless of the grades in the other class categories. Grading policies and rubrics for individual assignments will be provided at the time of announcement.

Missed and Late Work: No work will be accepted after the given due date unless due to a documented medical necessity or a documented school event. With the exception of medical emergencies, any missed work must be discussed in advance through email.

Jump Drive/Cloud Storage: Students are required to have some method of storing all electronic files for the class. Saving your work as an attachment in an email to yourself is also a good idea for important work (team projects, etc.). Don't save work to the lab computers as it will most likely be erased by PSU administration.

SolidWorks: SolidWorks is installed in a number of labs in KTC. An installation link is also available to students for use on their own personal computers. Contact the instructor if you wish to install the software on your own PC.

Canvas: The course will be administered with the Canvas system. The site will maintain course materials and be used for communications, problem submissions and grading. The site should be checked frequently. The exams may be given in Canvas, so please make sure you are set up beforehand.

Academic Dishonesty: Submitting someone else's work as your own will not be tolerated in this class. Working together on homework assignments is encouraged, but EACH individual must show ALL work for EVERY problem themselves. Examples of academic dishonesty include, but aren't limited to: cheating on assignments or tests, submitting someone else's work as your own, giving your work to someone else, use of solution manuals/assignments from previous semesters, not citing sources on a writing assignment. Plagiarism includes copying from printed solution manuals, from other students, from the web, etc. Determination of what is or is not academic dishonesty is at the discretion of the instructor. If your work is considered to be an act of academic dishonesty all parties involved will automatically receive a zero on that assignment. Your actions could also cause you to receive an 'F' in the course and could result in severe penalties, up to and including dismissal from the university.

Communication Policy: Students are encouraged to interact with the instructor outside of class in person, via phone conversations and over the Internet; the preferred method of communication is via email. Questions sent via Canvas or email will typically be answered within less than 24 hours if received between 8:00am Mondays and 4:00pm Fridays; however, any questions asked outside of the "normal business week" may result in longer than normal response times. The instructor will not discuss homework/tests/assignments within 24 hours of the due date or 24 hours of when they are handed back. Feedback on quizzes and assignments will usually be based on the scope of the assignment; the rule of thumb is "however long you had to do it, expect it to take that long to get feedback."

SPECIAL CONCERNS: Any student who, because of a disabling condition, may require some special arrangements in order to meet course requirements should contact the instructor as soon as possible to make necessary accommodations; 7-10 days prior notice prior to an exam is appreciated to allow time to provide necessary materials to the Testing Center. Information about academic support services can also be obtained from the PSU Center for Student Accommodations.

Presentation Style (20%)	All students are in business casual or better. Students use slides as an aid to their presentation, but do not read directly. Good use of animation		Most stduents are at the low end of business casual. Occasional looks at the screen while presenting. Some pause words without being intrusive. Able to finish in time allotted.	No/few students dressed professionally (hats, sweats, etc). Most of the content is read directly from the screen. Pause words are intrusive and distract from the content. Exceedingly short/long presentation
Graphics (25%)	Extensive, well dimensioned CAD. Good text size/contrast/color/etc.		Some CAD with a few key dimensions. Readable slides. Some text, but mostly graphics.	Minimal CAD. Few visuals. Too much text. Poor contrast choices that make the presentation difficult to follow.	No CAD. Unreadable text.
Customer Requirements (Human Systems within a Global Context) (25%)	Students are able to explian the relationship between the different roles of each team member, and how each design step correlated to a successful project.		Show a table or graphic that clearly links a customer input to a final specification. Design process steps are clearly listed and specific examples are given to illustrate. (Benchmark)	Show some data to support their design decisions, but it may not be linked directly to a customer requirement. Students list the steps in the design process.	No data shown to support how final design meets customer needs. No demonstration that the design process was followed.
Team Roles (Human Systems within a Global Context) (20%)	The team roles are equally divided among all members and explaination given to why each role was assigned.		Students describe their role in the project, and roles are approximately equally divided. (Benchmark)	Students describe their role in the project, but some members clearly took on lesser/greater responsibility.	One or more students did not contribute in a meaningful way.
Group Effort (10%)	All team members share the presentation duties equally.		All members present something, with one or two members doing most of the work	Some team members do all/most of the talking while others do little to nothing.	Some team members do not particpate at all.

Attendees:

1. Professor Murray
2. Dr. Maxwell
3. Dr. Miller
4. Prof. Jacob Lehman (Manufacturing)
5. Prof. Dan Speilbusch (Plastics)

Revise Engineering Graphics sequence

- MECET faculty decided at 02/02/22 meeting to rename sequence to reflect flow of content and relation to each other
    - MECET 121 – Engineering Graphics I
    - MECET 226 – Engineering Graphics II
    - MECET 323 – Industrial Graphics
    - MECET 528 – Engineering Graphics III
- Maxwell provided list of topics currently taught in MECET 121, 226, 323 and 528
- MFGET and PET are customers of 121 & 226, so their input was sought for topics to include
- After discussion, the list shown below was adopted; MECET 323 will cover AutoCAD to address concern from MECET IAB
- Descriptions for catalog were discussed and the following were adopted:
    - 121: Introduction to fundamental principles of graphic communication. Use of computer aided design software to produce 2-D sketches, 3-D geometry, and introduce analysis tools. Introduction to Additive Manufacturing. Investigate the role of designers in industry.
    - 226: Use of computer aided design software to generate complex 3-D geometry and communicate detail design information, dimensioning and tolerancing, etc. Prerequisite: MECET 121 Engineering Graphics I or equivalent.
    - 528: Study of advanced modeling methods to support secondary operations in design, manufacturing and product communication. Topics include: 3D sketching, surfaces, and top down assembly. Prerequisite: MECET 226 Engineering Graphics II.
    - 323: Computer aided drafting techniques, standards and tolerancing methods to prepare design layouts, assembly, detail and installation drawings. Emphasis on 2-D software and 2-D drawings. Prerequisites: MECET 121 Engineering Graphics I.
- Action Item: Miller will begin legislation packets (Each class, curriculum, CAD Certificate)

SolidProfessor

- Murray showed demo of Solid Professor curriculum
- Cost is ~$85 for a single semester, or ~$125 for 4 year subscription.

- Students can access any content while their subscription is active, so it will save them money and allow self-study
- Decided to adopt for the rest of the graphics sequence and MFGET will consider adding content for their classes
    - Murray is already using in 226
    - ACTION ITEM: Spielbusch, Miller & Murray will need to coordinate before Fall '22 to adopt content in 121 that doesn't overlap with 226
    - Idea is that one "shell" will be created that can be shared among all faculty teaching a section that is then imported into Canvas; will hopefully homogenize content among sections

Name of Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate: Associate of Applied Science with a Major in Architectural Manufacturing, Management and Technology

If proposing a name change to major or minor/emphasis/certificate, indicate Proposed Name Change:
Associate of Applied Science with a major in Wood Product Manufacturing

Description of Change: Change the name of the degree from Architectural Manufacturing, Management and Technology to Wood Product Manufacturing.

Rationale for Change (include changes to curriculum objectives): The current name is confusing for prospective students looking for a career in the woodworking industry. The new name will allow prospective students to identify their career goals by correctly identifying what they will do in the program. This recommendation was approved by the AMMT program advisory committee comprised of industry professionals.

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any degree program or minor/emphasis/certificate at any other Regent university?
☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation.
The AMMT program is the only program of its kind in the state. Changes do not affect any other institution.

Request for Revision to Curriculum

Revision for: ☒ Major ☐ Minor ☐ Emphasis ☐ Certificate

Department: TWL College: COT

Submission Date: 3/2/2022

Revision Effective: Fall, 2022 (Year)

Contact Person: Phillips ☒ Faculty member ☐ Chair

Name of Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate: Bachelor of Applied Science with a Major in Architectural Manufacturing, Management and Technology

If proposing a name change to major or minor/emphasis/certificate, indicate Proposed Name Change:
Bachelor of Applied Science with a major in Wood Product Manufacturing

Description of Change: Change the name of the major from Architectural Manufacturing, Management and Technology to Wood Product Manufacturing.

Rationale for Change (include changes to curriculum objectives): The current name is confusing for prospective students looking for a career in the woodworking industry. The new name will allow prospective students to identify their career goals with the program by correctly identifying what students do. This recommendation was discussed and approved by the AMMT program advisory committed comprised of industry professionals.

Is this revision related to, and/or may affect, any degree program or minor/emphasis/certificate at any other Regent university?

☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation.
The AMMT program is the only program of its kind in the state. Changes do not affect any other institution.

Contact Person: Charlie Phillips ☒ Faculty member ☐ Chair

Name of Existing Major or Minor/Emphasis/Certificate: BS in Architectural Manufacturing Management and Technology: Wood Teacher Training Emphasis

Rationale for Change (include changes to curriculum objectives): The TWL department currently has the Career and Technical Education Degree with a Technical Teacher Education emphasis (in-service certificate) and Technology & Engineering Education (pre-service license) which prepare woodworking educators. If a student chooses to teach, these options provide a pathway to obtain a teaching certificate or license. The duplication is unnecessary.

Is this deletion related to, and/or may affect, any degree program or minor/emphasis/certificate at any other Regent university?
☐ Yes ☒ No

Whether a "yes" or "no" response, please provide an explanation. Provide documentation of any discussions (e.g. copies of e-mails, memos, etc.) that have occurred.
There has not been a student in this emphasis in several years. The elimination of the emphasis does not restrict a student's ability to pursue a path to teaching, it does streamline the process by having them work within the scope of a teaching program already within the department if they choose education.

Notification to COCAO/Kansas Board of Regents (if required): Date: _____

Each college curriculum representative will notify their respective college and department(s) of the completion of the approval process. If COCAO/KBOR approval is required, questions should be directed to the Provost's administrative officer at x4113.

Originating Department(s): After completing this form, in its entirety, please upload it to the SharePoint, within the appropriate College folder "Preliminary Legislation", to allow for review and questions. Any modifications should be saved as "original file name.version2.docx" and uploaded as well.

Following final College Curriculum Committee approval, please print the final version of this form, apply the appropriate signatures, and uploaded to SharePoint file, "Approved College Curriculum Legislation".

Following Faculty Senate Approval, SUBMIT (if required) SIGN-OFF SHEET AND FINAL COMPLETE PACKAGE, in electronic format, TO THE OFFICE OF THE PROVOST (220 RUSS HALL). Please check with the Provost's administrative officer at x4113 if unsure.

Please Note: This is at least a 2-3 month process from the time of first submission and is designed to eliminate concerns and questions at the beginning of the process. Any questions/concerns not addressed prior to the review by the College Curriculum Committee and the Faculty Senate University Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, may result in an additional month added to the process, before it is sent (if required) to the Kansas Board of Regents, which may result in a delay in implementation.
