The following curricular matter was submitted for approval:

TABLED MATTER (from May meeting):
Arts & Sciences: New Course for Family and Consumer Sciences
FCS*730 Independent Study in FCS

Duane Whitbeck was present to discuss the matter and answer questions from the council. He explained that FCS has discussed creating an integrative degree with Technology Studies, which may come into existence within the next year. The department has gotten requests over the years for a Masters program specifically in FCS, in order to get the content of such classes and not necessarily teacher education, as their courses are currently set up to give.

Pass/Fail Courses for Ed.S. Students:
